Mom Pleads Not Guilty In Fla. Missing Toddler Case

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - The mother of a missing 3-year-old Florida girl has pleaded not guilty to charges that she killed her daughter, whose body hasn't been found despite four months of searching.

Casey Anthony's written plea was entered Wednesday, the day after a grand jury indicted her on charges of first-degree murder, aggravated child abuse, aggravated manslaughter and four counts of lying to investigators about the disappearance of her daughter, Caylee.

Caylee has not been seen since June, but wasn't reported missing until a month later. The child's grandmother first called authorities in July to say that she hadn't seen Caylee for a month and that her daughter's car smelled like death.

Casey Anthony, 22, told authorities that she had left her daughter with a babysitter in June, and that the two were gone when she returned from work. She says she spent the next month trying to find her daughter and didn't call authorities because she was scared.

Investigators immediately started poking holes in her story. The apartment where Anthony said she had left her daughter had been vacant for months, they said. They said she also lied when she told them she had been working at an area theme park as an event planner.

Shortly before the indictment was issued Tuesday, Baez said he believed his client would be vindicated. Todd Black, a spokesman for Baez, said Friday that Anthony still believes her daughter is alive.

QUESTION: Why is Bill Shuster talking about paperwork?

We have an energy crisis.
We have a healthcare crisis.
We have a financial meltdown.

People are losing their retirement funds and their healthcare coverage, not to mention their homes and their jobs, And Bill Shuster is talking about...

PAPERWORK?!!

ANSWER: Shuster doesn't want to talk about his vote on the bailout. Shuster doesn't want to talk about his vote on children's healthcare coverage. Shuster doesn't want to talk about his cozy relationship with lobbyists!

Bill Shuster is out of touch with the values of real people. We need a congressman, who is concerned about the lives of citizens, not Washington DC paperwork!
