

Eastern Pa. Newspaper Announces 70 More Layoffs

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (AP) – The Morning Call of Allentown has announced that it will eliminate more than 70 positions, more than 10 percent of its work force, due to declining revenue.

Publisher Tim Kennedy says a score of vacant positions will not be filled, but about 50 employees will be affected.

Kennedy said in an e-mail to employees that “the traditional newspaper business model is broken and we fight hard every day to build the foundation for a new one.”

He said it was “painfully ironic” that the paper’s audience reach has grown while financial results continue to worsen.

The cuts will leave the newspaper’s work force at about 580 people.

The Morning Call’s daily print circulation has dropped 8.9 percent from a year ago to 99,111, and Sunday circulation declined 7.2 percent to 130,693 compared with a year ago.

Eph. 6:1-3 "Children, obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right. Honour thy father and mother; which is the first commandment with promise; That it may be well with thee, and thou mayest live long on the earth."
 As we honor mothers with their special day, we are reminded that this is a command from God Himself and is something we should do every day. It is the only one of the Ten Commandments that has a promise tied to it. Whenever we obey God's Word, we can expect a blessing. When we walk according to His Word as found in the Bible, it will truly be well with us no matter what comes our way. As we honor our mothers this Sunday, let it serve as a reminder to us to observe all of God's commands.
